Summary

Are you a Tahltan Youth interested in stewardship activities and looking for summer employment?

Stewardship is the careful and responsible management of something entrusted to one's care. The TSI will help the Tahltan Nation to plan and manage our land, water, wildlife and natural resources. It will ensure we take care of our territory now and for future generations by conserving wildlife, managing economic development, protecting our environment and relationship with the land (including culturally significant areas), and asserting jurisdiction over our Territory by furthering our role in and refining shared decision-making processes.

One of the key strategies of the TSI is to ensure the TCG has the internal capacity to support decision-making, manage operations and engage communities for land stewardship decisions. The TSI Youth Stewardship Program aims to build confidence, interest, knowledge and opportunity for youth, so that they increasingly see themselves as capable young people, future community leaders, and Tahltan territorial stewards. This opportunity will strengthen youth leadership by restoring cultural and land-based connections through hands-on learning and experience. For these reasons, we are seeking Youth Stewardship Officers to work towards building our internal capacity.
